LEGION HEAD IS KILLED INSTANTLY

Indianapolis, June 9.—Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., of Cincinnati, national commander of the American Legion, was killed almost instantly, and two other officers of the Legion, Milton J. Foreman, of Chicago, and Henry Ryan, of Indianapolis, were injured shortly after last midnight, when an automobile in which they were riding left the road, plunged over an embankment at Sixteenth street and Indiana avenue, and turned over.
Commander Galbraith suffered a fracture of the skull and died just a few minutes after the accident. Mr. Foreman, who is national committeeman for the state of Illinois and chairman of the national finance committee of the Legion, suffered a working properly during the last few days.

Galbraith was elected commander of the Legion at the Cleveland convention last September. During the world war he served as colonel and was named as "The Fighting Colonel of the Fighting First." The officer led his regiment through the German lines in 1918.

Col. Galbraith was born at Watertown, Mass., May 6, 1874 and at the time of his death was president of the Western Paper Company.

The successor to Galbraith will be chosen by the executive committee of the legion early next week at a meeting here. There are five vice commanders and any of them are eligible to the place.

S. S. CONVENTION BEGINS ON JUNE 14

Special Features Will Mark The Three Day Sessions of Annual State Sunday School Meeting

MANY NOTABLES WILL SPEAK

Lafayette Will be Center For 1800 Delegates of Various Sunday School of the State

Lafayette, Ind., June 9.—Numerous special features mark the three day program arranged for the annual state Sunday School convention to be held in this city June 14, 15 and 16. The presence of Prof. H. Augustine Smith, the world famous pageant master who is to direct the convention pageant and have charge of the music, will assure a treat in itself, and the other celebrities who will have an important part in the entertainment of the convention visitors include world leaders in Sunday School work.

Trinity Methodist church, at Sixth and North streets, will be the convention headquarters. All morning mass meetings will be held at the new Mars theater and all general sessions in the evening will be held in the Memorial gymnasium at Purdue University. The divisional conferences will be held at various Lafayette churches in the downtown district. All delegates are to report at general headquarters to get their badges, programs and directions.

Ample arrangements have been made for the entertainment of guests and it is expected that attendance records will be broken. Tippecanoe county, alone, is registering 1,800 delegates. Hundreds of local homes will be opened to receive visitors.

One of the interesting features of this year's program is to be a special conference for pastors. Vespers will be held each evening on the campus at Purdue university. The pageant on the closing night will be the chief evening spectacle. A morning watch, a sight-seeing trip for all visitors and sectional banquets are among the other special attractions.

The convention program as arranged by the committee is as follows:

Tuesday, June 14
Morning session at Mars theater, John N. Feazey presiding—10 o'clock, song service conducted by H. Augustine Smith; 10:20, greeting, 10:30, response by J. N. Feazey; 10:40, address by Maude J. Baldwin, children's division superintendent of the International Sunday School Association; 11:15, address by H. E. Tralle of Philadelphia, editor of Baptist publications; 11:45, Bible message; W. A. Brown of Chicago, superintendent of evangelistic committee of the International Association; 12:05, announcements.
Afternoon sessions—Sectional conferences from 2 to 4:30 o'clock followed by convention parade at 4:30; 5:20 o'clock, supper for county officers at St. John's Episcopal church, Sixth and Ferry streets; 6:45, vespers on Purdue campus, W. A. Brown presiding.

Evening session—General session at Purdue gymnasium starting at 7:45 with song service conducted by Prof. Smith; 8:20, address by Sterling L. Williams of Kansas City, Mo., state superintendent of young people's work; 8:50, address by H. A. Tralle; 9:20, meditation by W. A. Brown; 9:40, adjournment.
Wednesday, June 15
Morning watch at 6:30; 7:30, breakfast; 8:45 to 10:15, visit publishers' display and attend sectional conferences—children's, young people's, adult, administration, county officers; 10:30, general session at Mars theater, J. G. Sims presiding, song service and prayer; 10:50, address by A. M. Locker of Chicago administrative superintendent of the International Association; 11:20, address, "Christian Education Today," Bishop F. D. Leete of the Indianapolis Area; 12:15, adjournment, visit publishers' display.
Afternoon general session at Purdue university gymnasium starting at 2 o'clock, E. H. Hasemeier presiding—2:00, song and worship, H. A. Smith; 2:15, reports by state office; 2:40, recognition service; 3:40, address by H. A. Tralle; 4:00, sight-seeing trip; 6:45 to 7:30, vespers.

Evening session—General session at Purdue gymnasium beginning at 7:45, A. O. Binford presiding. Song service conducted by Prof. Smith; 8:30, address, H. A. Tralle; 9:10, meditation, W. A. Brown; 9:30, announcements and adjournment.
Thursday, June 16
Morning watch at 6:30, breakfast at 7:30 and sectional conferences from 8:45 to 10:15. General session at Mars theater at 10:30, W. A. Carpenter presiding—10:30, song and worship, Prof. Smith; 10:45, address by W. H. Stockman

LESSONS IN BASEBALL

By J. B. SHERIDAN
AUTHOR OF "BASEBALL FOR BEGINNERS"

Copyright, 1921, by The International Syndicate

HOW TO RUN BASES

Base running is a very important department of baseball. It helps to win games. So every player should, to the best of his ability, become a base runner. Speed is valuable but not essential to good base running. Good judgment, getting a good start on the pitcher and a good slide are the things that make a good base runner. Base running implies running bases on batted balls as well as stealing bases.

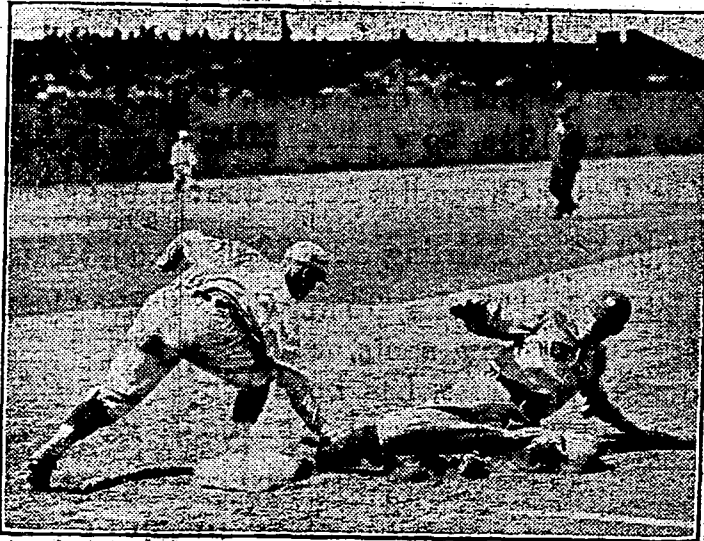

The art of base running is so intricate that it can be learned only by practice and by experience. These lessons assume to impart only the fundamentals of the game to young players. The fine points must be learned by actual play, practice and experience. It may be said, however, that base running is capable of vast improvement. It is no better now than it was 30 years ago. A change, such as some player making a crouched start off third good base runner will take a lead of from 15 to 18 feet off first base on a good pitcher. Amateur base runners take a lead of some 6 to 8 feet—not half enough.

Take a good lead. Slide back feet first when he throws to base. A good start is even more important than a big lead. When you have got the pitcher's motion and make up your mind to go, get into your stride quickly and without effort.

Keep your eye on the corner of the bag to which you mean to slide. Don't look at the catcher or at the basemen. Look only at the base.

A hook slide with either foot is necessary to good base running. The hook slide means that you slide your body some distance off the bag then reach over and touch the bag with a hook of the knee. The free foot may be ahead of the bag when the hooking foot comes from behind to touch it. The baseman may try

SLIDING BACK TO FIRST BASE

Peckinpugh (Yankee) has taken an 18 foot lead off first on Shocker pitcher Browns. Shocker throws to Sisler, who is trying to touch out Peckinpugh, but the hook slide takes the runner away from Sisler's quick motion to touch him out.

base, will revolutionize the entire art of base running.

The first thing for a base runner to do is to get a good line on the pitcher's motions. This should be done if possible before going to bat. Observe the opposing pitcher closely and try to find out if he has not got some peculiar motion which will let you know in advance when he is about to deliver the ball to the batter. Also watch for a deceptive motion that may catch a runner off base.

"GET THE PITCHER'S PECULIARITIES" is the first step in base running.

Then get the catcher's measure. Does he receive the ball in good position? Does he throw well? Then mark the basemen. Do they take throws and touch runners well?

Measure the pitcher. When you are confident that you know his abilities take a lead accordingly. A to touch the free foot and thus miss the hooking foot. Finished base stealers like Cobb will throw their bodies far away from the bag, even slide past it, but will catch it by dragging the hooking foot, after them. Only finished professionals of high class can make this play.

Sliding head first is advisable only when the runner thinks he can touch the bag with his hand better than he could touch it with his foot. The head first slide is dangerous and is not recommended here.

If the baseman stands in front of the bag slide to the rear of the base and hook it with the left foot. If he stands behind the bag slide inside and touch it with the right foot.

New Low Price Makes Chalmers a Finer Investment

At the new low prices, the Chalmers is a particularly satisfactory investment. It is a remarkably good value; and it costs the owner less by the month or the year.

Since last fall, the Chalmers has been reduced $300 to $450 in price, according to the type, bringing it down to about the price asked for many smaller cars.

Its upkeep is exceedingly low. Replacement and maintenance charges are less. The life of the car is longer.

This is largely due to the wonderful Chalmers motor.

Fuel is Pre-Heated

The hot-spot pre-heats the fuel before it enters the cylinders. Combustion is much better and more complete.

Scored cylinder walls, burned bearings and other motor ills are avoided. Adjustments are less necessary. Costly shop lay-ups are almost unknown.

A Beautiful Car

Besides being fine mechanically, the Chalmers is a beautiful car, worthy of comparison with those costing a great deal more.

Its design, its fittings and its upholstery are all in thorough keeping with its wonderful motor.

We suggest that you permit us to demonstrate the marked Chalmers superiority.

Indiana B. P. O. E. Commends Harding for Purpose to Live Up to National Ideals

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Evansville, Ind., June 9.—The twentieth annual convention and reunion of the Elks' lodges of Indiana are meeting here for a two days' session. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Clyde Hunter, Gary; first vice president, Dr. A. J. McDonald, Bedford; second vice president, Edwin Julian, Vincennes; third vice president, Harry Knight, Elkhart; secretary, Thomas G. Hedman, Indianapolis; treasurer, J. C. Sawyer, Michigan City; trustee for three years, Julius Albe, Valparaiso; chaplain, Don Allman, Noblesville; sergeant-at-arms, Irving B. Heilman, Evansville.

The place of holding the 1922 convention was left to the board of trustees and the appointment of standing committees was left to the new president.

The resolutions commended President Warren G. Harding for his purpose to live up to the national ideals of Americanism. They also pointed out that Elks should do all in their power to promulgate optimism and patriotism in "these trying times of reconstruction." A telegram was sent to the Elks lodge at Pueblo, Col., expressing sympathy for the flooded city and offering to extend aid.

WOULD REFUND WAR OBLIGATION

Senator New Does Not Favor Meeting Government Loans Falling Due in Next 3 Years

TOASTMASTER AT BANQUET

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. and W. C. Cornwell of New York Also Speak at Manufacturers Meeting

Indianapolis, Ind., June 8.—The annual banquet of the Indiana Manufacturers' Association was held here to-night, many well-known men being present. Senator Harry S. New was toastmaster and a guest of honor. The principal speakers were Senator New, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and W. C. Cornwell, New York.

At the convention today the open shop was discussed. The following officers were elected: The following officers were elected: President, J. L. Kimbrough, Muncie; First Vice President, William M. Taylor, Indianapolis; Second Vice President, Lynn Falcómer Seymour, Treasurer, Fred Gardner, Indianapolis; Directors (for two years), H. F. Badet, South Bend; Frank Bass, Shelbyville; J. M. Lantz, Richmond; L. H. Link, Ft. Wayne; H. C. Kley, Evansville; M. B. Binford, Crawfordsville.

Senator New spoke briefly of business conditions and of important matters confronting Congress. He declared in favor of the repeal of the excess profits tax and stated his belief that the country can get along without it and other special taxes. He said he favored refunding the $7,000,000,000 war obligation coming due soon. He favored repeal of the transportation taxes and asserted that lower railroad rates are necessary. He said that the tariff schedules must not be made too high.

Mr. New said in part: "The task of the present Congress has never been surpassed in magnitude. It is necessary that all the agencies of the Government shall be put intelligently and busily at work toward restoring to a sound basis the agricultural, industrial and transportation interests of the country."

"To bridge over until a well-digested tariff measure can be prepared the emergency tariff bill has been passed. It is essentially an emergency measure, a stop-gap, if you please. Its chief purpose was to protect agriculture from ruinous competition of other countries and to give the farmer a chance to dispose of his products with the least loss possible. We are all suffering from business stagnation, but I believe that the farmer was hit sooner and a little harder than the rest of us. The anti-dumping clause was inserted for the benefit of the manufacturer, to protect him temporarily from the dumping of cheaply-produced goods from abroad, and until the new, and it is to be hoped far better bill can be made to replace it. We must not err by making its schedule too high."

"Every business man and particularly your manufacturers, feels the weight of taxation that the waste of war has entailed. The present system, adopted in more or less haste during the war, when time was precious and deliberation difficult—must be substantially faulted, is unwisely burdensome and changed. It has become a drag upon industry. In my judgment the first step taken should be the repeal of the so-called excess profits tax."

"It is a mathematical certainty that during the next year, and probably for several years thereafter, the Government will require for current necessities and income approximately $4,000,000,000 and this being the case the questions that natural tax be repealed, and if so, mustly arise—Can the excess profits there be a substitute for it? I am inclined to think it can be cut off and no direct substitute provided, if this is to be done, the expenses of the Government must be cut to the bone, but this is a time for just that kind of cutting."

"Last year the Secretary of the Treasury retired almost $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds and Victory notes drawing 4 1/2 percent interest. I think this was a mistake and that, instead he should have applied the proceeds of the sinking fund, amounting to about $250,000,000 to the retirement of our short time notes, drawing 5 1/2 and 6 percent. Within the next three years Government loans will mature amounting to something like $7,000,000,000. Shall we provide for the payment of these by assessing taxes upon the industries of the country or shall they be refinanced? In my opinion, the condition of business calls for the adoption of the refunding policy."

"I think, too, we should repeal the taxes on transportation, both freight and passenger, out of which the Treasury received last year $250,000,000. There is no greater problem before the Congress than that of transportation. It is hopelessly impossible from the standpoint of the roads and the shippers alike, that present conditions shall long continue. The current rates for both freight and passengers are unendurable and even as they are, the roads are not making ends meet. It has been charged in some quarters that the roads have been guilty of extravagance in management."

"There should be a rigid investigation of this, and if the charge be proved they should be compelled to correct the abuse. On the other hand, railroad labor which formerly accounted for 50 percent of operating cost now stands for 70 percent of it. It is perfectly obvious that this condition cannot permanently endure."

"The industrial world has been passing through its greatest crisis, the end of which is, I hope in sight. The unprecedented shrinkage in inventory values, the necessary conservation of the banks the enormous increase in labor costs and that of transportation have combined to arouse the gravest apprehension. There has been real basis for it, as every one knows, and to the certainties of the present have been added the uncertainties of the future. Nobody knows what his taxes are to be or on what assessed. We are still guessing as to the tariff schedules. There must be an answer to these riddles. It is up to this Congress to provide it."

"You can keep a business man scared for a long time, but you can't keep him scared always. Remove the uncertainties. Show him what his taxes are to be; what the tariff is to be; remove the excess profits tax, and the manufacturer will have the confidence, as well as the incentive, to adopt the slogan of the President 'Full Speed Ahead.'"

TO FIGHT UNJUST ARREST IN STATE

Laws relating to motor traffic. We are recognized as one of the strong agencies for law enforcement and we are almost solely responsible for most of the laws now on the statute books affecting motor traffic. But the pest of unjust arrest on trumped up charges by constables who split hairs to bring these charges purely for the fees that are in it for them must be brought to a halt.

"By the time taken, we wish herewith to warn all automobile drivers that they must proceed slowly when driving through towns and villages. They must close their cut-outs. They must not drive on the left side of the street and they must not pass standing street cars or in urban areas when same are taking on or discharging passengers. Arrests on such bases are entirely justifiable. We wish all our members, however, throughout the state, to report alleged cases of officials who exceed the letter and the spirit of the laws in making unjust arrests."

It is stated that Attorney General E. S. Lesh has had his attention called to several specific cases of apparent grafting on the part of constables in various sections of Indiana and that he has offered to give assistance to the Hoosier State Auto Association to bring an end to these practices.
